THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L. Jr.

I ought to write a book on WHY I LIKE NEVADA CITY, and I probably will, giving at least a thousand good reasons. But right now what I'm thinking out loud is that one reason I like Nevada City is that there are so many interesting places near-by. The one on my mind right now is WASHINGTON.

People who remember the horrible old road they used to have to traverse will be MIGHTY PLEASED with the road as it is now. I used to drive down there in my Model A Ford. It was strictly whoop-dee-do, hold your hat and DID THE WOMEN SCREAM! Of course as a young high school or college sprout, safety was the least of my concerns and I thought it was a glorified shoot the chutes.

However it was a lousy road. If it didn't shake your car apart and chip the edges off your teeth and RATTLE YOUR SPINE or send you careening off into a thousand foot canyon on the way down, it was just about guaranteed to boil the pistons right off your engine on the way up. And if you met another auto on the road—that was an occasion that called for plain and fancy backing and filling of the highest order.

But that's all just a memory now. Just a blood-curdling, nerve-chilling memory. A lot of work has gone into the OLD GOAT TRAIL in the last few years. It's about twice as wide as it used to be. The deepest ruts have disappeared and there's room to pass another car anywhere you please. It's surfaced in good crushed rock. The most hideous hairpin turns have been taken out.

Washington looks about the same as it used to, BUT IT ISN'T. The hotel, that used to look like it was haunted, and be deserted except for a solitary woodenfaced figure sitting out in front and SPITTING, is now full to the rafters with young sawmill workers from the nearby Tahoe Sugar Pine Company. A few years ago, you could buy a house in Washington with a huge lot for less than a thousand dollars. When I was there a few days ago there was a pretty good frame house on an acre lot and what do you think the price asked was? THREE THOUSAND DOLLARS! Don't tell ME Washington's out of touch with the world.

You drive through town and past the miniature jail and equally miniscule church and pretty soon you notice a not unpleasant smell of wood smoke and you see the tall stack of the Tahoe Sugar Pine Company where a lot of sawing and cutting and burning and JUST PLAIN WORKING is going on, although not so much as before the labor trouble and the big rioting charges.

The YUBA ABOVE DOWNIEVILLE is just as beautiful as ever, if not more beautiful. There's a marvelous swimming hole about every hundred or two hundred yards. The water's pure transparent emerald, and you can see every grain of sand on the bottom. The trout, AND THERE ARE PLENTY OF TROUT right now, look up at your with big hungry eyes and give you the impression that they are a lot stupider than they really are.

The sawmill workers who live at the hotel frequently fish for an hour or so after supper and never have much trouble bringing back a mess of fish for breakfast. The water's not too high right now and the wary trout are rising to flies with vim and vigor.

The sawmill smoke casts a faint blue haze over the magnificent gorge of the Yuba. Some places the river banks are big round white boulders and others a wall of slate rising sharp out of the water with a thousand jagged edges. It's beautiful.

And that's ONE OF A THOUSAND REASONS WHY I LIKE LIVING UP HERE.

ELLIS WARNS OF DANGER FROM 4TH FIREWORKS

Supervisor Guerdon Ellis of Tahoe national forest today warned the sale, display or possession of fireworks is strictly regulated by law.

Due to unusually high temperatures during the past several weeks the forest cover has dried out with unpreedented rapidity so that today the fire season is one month ahead of normal, observed Ellis. Thus with the stage set for a conflagration it is mandatory in the interest of the public safety that we rigidly enforce the laws concerning fireworks.

A devastating fire on the forest would deliver a paralyzing blow to economic structure of the Tahoe area from which we might never fully recover. By doing the following simple things while in the forest during the 4th of July holiday we can prevent such a catastrophe.

Follow the rules on your campfire permit—put your campfire dead out when you leave camp.

Be dead sure your match and tobacco is dead out.

Leave your fireworks at home.

Ellis concluded "Every forest user should remember that the fate of our beautiful forested lands lies in his finger tips every time he strikes a match."

OWNERS OFFER MAY AVERT MWPL MINERS STRIKE

Ed J. Jones, secretary of the Mine Workers Protective League, stated yesterday that at the regular meeting of the league this evening, the members would consider a better offer by mine owners increasing their wage scale, than the 11 1-2 cents first suggested.

Early this month the league which holds contracts with the Empire Star Mines Company Ltd. and the Idaho Maryland Mines Company asked for an increase in hourly wages of 18 1-2 cents. When the mine managements offered 11 1-2 cents, the league almost unanimously rejected it.

Strike notices were posted to take effect June 30 when the contract expires, but the mine owners according to Jones, have reconsidered their first offer and it is believed a strike will not take place.

LAW OF SUPPLY AND DEMAND TO TAKE OVER SOON

By Ralph H. Taylor

As the OPA dies tentacle, tentacle, a condition long foreseen by many agricultural and business spokesmen looms unpleasantly. For along with talk of the end of price controls is talk of the withdrawal of the subsidy program of price supports.

The evil that must come, as a direct consequence of the mistaken, too-long- operated "emergency", system of artificial government interference with the law of supply and demand will fall most heavily upon the people the controls were purported to benefit—the millions of families and individuals in the low-income groups.

Death of the OPA when that agency's last breath is finally drawn will in itself result in some upward adjustment of retail price for the reason that OPA ceilings have held many reltail prices so near, or even below the costs of production that increases are necessary to prevent strangulation of productive enterprise. It was gradual realization of this necessity that built up public—and finally legislative—opposition to further continuance of the OPA with the extraordinary powers it clung to so tenaciously.

The most unfortunate temporary evil, as this column pointed out repeatedly through the post war months, is that sudden withdrawal o farm subsidies, which are economically unnatural, will further increase the cost of living temporarily at a most unpropitious time. In an interim report on the investigation conducted by the U. S. Senate Agricultural Committee, with respect to the efforts of the OPA to solve dairy products price problems by the use of subsidies, the following statement appears:

"Measured by any standard, this is no solution to the dairy problem. It is not maintaining production; for all the evidence was that production is declining. The program has been carried out on a national basis, whereas the evidence has shown that market area costs are crucial problems to be dealt with. In the case of small producers—particularly the producers of farm separated cream—the subsidy payment is so delayed that the farmer often has not the cash resources to feed his cattle in the meantime. It is subject to the changing will of congress. No dairyman can take the long range plans essential to his business when a fifth to a third of his income depends upon political and administrative decisions which he cannot aiticipate. This factor contributes to declining production.

"It is unquestionable that dairy farmers dislike the subsidy. It is humiliating because the dairyman, against his will, is in the position of begging for a government handout. It exposes him to ridicule of his neighbors as a 'charity' case and goes deep against the grain of self respect. The subsidy is inflationary in that it adds to the public debt and increases the already excessive spendable consumer income. The consumer is the real beneficiary of subsidies at a time when if ever, he can afford to pay what it costs to produce the dairy products he uses. The witnesses agreed that if low-income groups need subsidy, let the subsidy be paid to such groups. The commtitee agrees."

That is plain, truthful speaking.

The unworkable process—the process that by its very nature could not endure for long— of playing part of the consumers' food bill by abstracting it from the merchants normal profit margin, and paying another sizeable share of it through farm subsidies from taxpayers' pockets was in full blast when war prosperity was at its height. Those were the days of $100 and $125 and $150 weekly paychecks in shipyards and war factories, when even the unskilled worker hit the peak earning power of his lifetime—when people had plenty of money for luxuries as well as necessities.

Already millions of workers are finding themselves obliged to adjust expenditures to match lower take home pay than they enjoyed a year ago. As time goes on, the majority of wage earners (and professional and business men as well) will have to make similar adjustment. The economic joyride of the war era must slow toward a reasonable normal.

It would have been far, far better to have begun the gradual withdrawal of all government pricing red tape—ceilings and subsidies alike—immediately after VJ day and to have had the process completed before now. As it is, the jolt to consumers may be sudden and sharp. And the farmer and the retailer will be widely blamed for a jarring dislocation in the cost of living for which they were never responsible and which they were powerless to prevent.

There is nothing to be gained, at this late date, by recrimination or by crying over spilled milk. But it would seem the duty of government, the real culprit, to learn by past errors—and to give the American public the facts.

SCOUT WORK AT CAMP PAHATSI

Conditioning of the waterfront dock of the scout lodge and placing of the electric pump for the water system were the major projects worked on at Camp Pahatsi Sunday, according to L. H. Reynolds who headed a party of scouts and scouters from Tahoe area council. Scouts and scouters were from Auburn, Grass Valley, Roseville and Penryn. Trucks for use on these projects were taken by the Nevada Irrigation District, Crockard Chevrolet and by Howard Snelling and were a great help in hauling materials used for the conditioning of the waterfront.

It was also announced that a building from the 20th Agricultural District has been given to the scouts through the cooperation of William Betell and his associates from Penryn. It is planned that this building which contains bathroom facilities, showers, will be disassembled by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and reassembled during the early fall at Camp Pahatsi. Letters of appreciation have gone to the 20th Agricultural District board and Bethell and his associates.

The camping and activities committee today reported that attendance for the Tahoe area scout camp at Pahatsi from July 21 to August 4 indicates that there will be a lage attendance and is taking this means of notifying parents and scouts who have not as yet sent their applications and fees to the scout office to do so immediately. The camp attendance will be limited to 85 registered scouts per week which is the maximum camp can accommodate with present available facilities. Upon receipt of applications bus schedules and medical examination blanks will be mailed to the scouts. It was also announced by Robert H. Frank, camp director, that there have been some changes in the junior staff personnel and that Dick Esterly of Troop 36, Grass Valyey will serve as a member.

ONE GOVERNMENT NEEDED TO BAN WORLD WAR III

BERKELEY, June 27—The establishment of some form of world government offers the only practical answer to the problem of control and development of atomic energy, Dr. Robert G. Sproul, president of the University of California told the 1946 graduating class at the University of California 83rd Commencement exercises in Berkeley.

"My guess would be that we have until 1955 to solve the problem of war prevention or to face a world armed to the teeth with atomic weapons of high efficiency." Sproul told the more than 1500 graduates. To avoid this situation he said such a world government seems inevitable.

Progress toward such a world control will continue to be far from easy, the university president said, noting the weakness of the present United Nations organization. Perhaps the most important basic obstacles he pointed out are the differences between the ideas of personal freedom which are held by different peoples and the differences in education and living standards among them.

"Finally" Sproul said, "there is the ineluctable difference between the communist and capitalist systems, which cannot exist side by side enther in a single nation or in one world although the question of which is better for mankind can it seems to me to be settled by other means than revolution and conflict."

All of the 1500 recipients of degrees and certificates received university scrolls at the ceremonies, the awards themselves to be mailed later. Dr. Monroe E. Deutsch vice-president and provost of the university gave the farewell address to the graduates while two student speakers represented their classmates at the exercises.

YIPPEEE, LET 'ER BUCK

The cowboy and the bucking horse will hold the center of the stage throughout California next week. For the July 4th holiday is rodeo time and will be fittingly celebrated in such widely sepaate communities as Crescent City, Willits and Redwood City to name just a few.

Whether you pronounce it roh-de-o or roh-day-o, the rodeo is a great western institution. And the communities that are preserving this institution deserve plenty of credit. —Contributed.

A WORLD WIDE MARKET FOR GOLD

To assure future employment in California's gold mining industry, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, through its mining committee, is seking the development of a plan for the world wide marketing of domestic mined gold. Efforts are now under way to arrange Washington conferences in order to develop such a world marketing plan.

The economy of at least 19 California counties rests heavily upon gold mining. And because of wartime conditions and the effect of the WPB Order L-208 very few properties are operating in any of those counties.

Commenting on the situation, G. L. Fox of the Chamber of Commerce Industrial Department, declared recently:

"Gold mining is essential to the economy of these counties and thousands of jobs will be contingent on an adjusted price for currently mined gold or the opening of the world's market to producers."

These efforts on the part of the San Francisco group show an intelligent approach to a problem which is truly regional in character. True, San Francisco mines no gold. But San Francisco realizes that its own economic welfare is deeply rooted in the welfare of the gold producing counties.

SAN FRANCISCO'S BLUSHING

At last it's the turn of urbane San Francisco (which long has smiled in a mite superior fashion at some other California municipalities) to have a red face. Los Angeles, in particular, has been viewed by S. F. as a slightly wacky cousin, for being the birthplace of Sinclair's EPIC, Ham 'n' Eggs, and other startling movements.

But now San Francisco is stuck with a political farce as crackpot as they come. The administration of Roger Lapham, the "people's mayor" was moving along in post war gear, when all of a sudden "the people" woke up to see the strangest recall campaign in U. S. municipal history confronting them.

Spear headed by a former city official who wasn't reappointed by Lapham, the recall vehicle is rolling merrily toward election day a month hence—a recall based on charges the recallers themselves admit wouln't hold water in any court in the land. No charge of malfeasance or misfeasance or dishonesty in office has even been suggested. The recall sponsors just plain don't like the mayor. And their position is strengthened by the fact that their ring leader happens to own a free distribution newspaper.

The melee isn't funny to San Francisco and the screwball battle is causing plenty of civic blushing.

Meanwhile—is Los Angeles feeling smug.—Contributed.

Veterans' News

Veterans who intend to apply for guaranteed loans but who have lost their original copies of discharge should take immediate steps to obtain substitutes in order to avoid delays and disappointments in negotiating the loans.

Veterans administration loan officials say many veterans are arranging short time options to buy property only to find they are delayed beyond the adoption date because they can't produce their original discharges.

A veterans loan may now be guaranteed automatically if the lending institution is satisfied that the individual is eligible on the basis of an honorable discharge certificate or separation order. The VA's bookkeeping and reviews of the case come later and do not hold up issuance of the money to the veteran.

However, if the veteran has no proof of his discharge, he must apply to his former branch of service for a certificate in lieu of discharge and then go to the VA for an eligibility certificate before a lending institution will consider him for a loan. Provided he produces evidence of the right kind of discharge, the VA can issue its certificate within six or seven days, the time it takes to establish a guarantee credit account in New York. However, it often takes as long as three months to obtain the substitute for a discharge.

Therefore, any veteran who anticipates applying for a loan guarantee is well advised to make certain he has his original discharge or to take steps to obtain a substitute far in advance of his needs.

Q: I have lost my discharge certificate. How do I go about getting another one?

A: You will not get another original discharge certificate, but you may obtain a certificate "in lieu of discharge" by applying to your former service. The nearest veterans administration office will advise you in detail or any army personnel affairs office or navy readjustment office can help you.

Q: Is a veteran who holds a bad conduct discharge entitled to any benefits under the Servicemen's Readjustment Act. (GI Bill)?

A: Since he holds neither an honorable nor a dishonorable discharge from the armed services it would be necessary for him to contact his nearest VA office for a decision as to whether he was discharged under conditions other than dishonorable. If he is found not to be eligible he may apply to the army or navy for revision of discharge.

The Auburn Stars and Stripes said: Hon. A. C. Niles of Nevada City has been unanimously and heartily endorsed by the Republicans of that county for nomination to the office of Justice of the Supreme Court. Judge Niles is a finished scholar, an accomplished and most companionable gentleman, above suspicion of corruptibility and regarded by members of the bar as one of the ablest jurists in the state. We speak favorable consideration of his claims at the heads of the delegation from Placer.

The funeral of Alexander Thomson, stone mason of this city who died while visiting in San Francisco, was postponed in consequence of a serious mistake that occurred on the railroad. Two bodies were shipped from San Francisco; Mr. Thomson for Colfax and another for Auburn. At Galt a telegram was received ordering the return of the body shipped to Auburn to San Francisco, and by mistake the body of Thomson was put off. The mistake was discovered too late to be remedied.

NEVADA CITY 50 YEARS AGO

Eggs were selling at fifteen cents per dozen at Wallace's Fruit Store.

It was reported in town that a certain small house would be vacated shortly. Within twenty four hours thereafter the owner had seventeen applications for it. The belief was that if there were fifty new houses they could be immediately rented to good tenants.

It was estimated there were forty or fifty men working in the mines around here who had families living at other places and who planned to send for them as soon as they could get anything in the shape of houses.

FISHING NEWS

Fishing throughout this area continues to be good, with fly fishing much improved. The various reports during the week show no preference however in the type of flies being used although the mosquito seems to be the favorite.

Some nice catches of large Macinaw are being taken from Lake Tahoe. The Macinaw has adopted itself in Lake Tahoe to a remarkable extent. The last planting of this species was in the early eighties of the last century, and each year hundreds of pounds of this fish are taken from Lake Tahoe and Donner Lake. These are the only two bodies of water in the state in which Macinaw can be found.

The Truckee River continues lower and clear and reports indicate the sport has been good.

Donner Lake has not produced much results the past week. The Fish and Game Commission are anxious to get reports on any catches of the Sockeye salmon that were planted in this lake two years ago. Fishermen are asked to report any catches to game warden LaMarr of this district.

Independence and Weber Lakes continue fair.

Some nice catches have been reported on the Little Truckee and in Boca Reservoir with bait.

TRINITY SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC MAKES BIG HIT

By R. L. C.

Trinity Episcopal Sunday school picnic at Pioneer Park on Tuesday was a "howling success"—and howling with merriment it was, from beginning to end, with sixty five pupils from four to sixteen entering into games under leadership of the spperintendent, Miss Elma Hecker, and her assistants who are teachers in the Sunday school.

Rev. Angus Miller, rector of Trinity church, umpired a baseball game played by a group of older boys, while Miss Hecker and Mrs. Marjorie Trotter formed circles for the "younger set" playing "Farmer-in-the Dell" until every child had a chance at being the farmer or his wife, the nurse of the child, the dog or the cat, the cat or the rat, or the cheese and the knife.

Afterward they all played "hide-and go-seek" and London-Bridge is falling down" with a chance to choose "which will you have—silver or gold, or rubies and diamonds."

William Shakespeare wrote "All the world's a stage, and all its men and women merely players; they have their exits and their entrances and one man in his time plays many parts."

That certainly fit Miss Hecker "like a glove"—for first and foremost she was the capable Sunday school superintendent; then hostess on the receiving committee; she was "IT" in the hide-and-seek game; next she was head waiter and dispenser of punch (all they could drink) and dished out dishes and dishes of ice cream until everyone was more than satisfied.

After the picnic lunch, "Inkty-Winkty! Presto-Change!" Miss Hecker became stage manager and produced right out of the hat, performers who sang like old vaudevilleians—delighting the crowd with "'S'ue City Sue" and The Atchison Topeka and the Santa Fe". Frankie Sinatra the second, was the attraction of the day, and his "stage presence" was superb.

At five o'clock mothers said it was time to go home, so Miss Hecker assumed her role of hostess, graciously accepting their thanks for a happy day. The children voted it as the "best picnic of the year."

Wednesday, Miss Hecker was back at the court house again at her prosaic job of being just Nevada County treasurer and tax collector—(and—happy to be there.)
